The Yearbook Staff

of

Keystone High School

presents the 1964

Key of Memories

Forward

We, the staff of the 1964 Key of Memories, wish to present our offering to the world of advancement. Having chosen the theme of complete moderization we emphasize the importance of progress. Keystone High School portrays well this never ending progress that will so greatly affect the lives of the students.

We hope this book will continue to hold a treasure of memories for each reader and bring back pleasant recollections of the past.

And so we present the 1964 Key of Memories, a symbolic record of the past and the key to the hopes of tomorrow.

While today's future becomes the present and the todays becomes yesterdays, you will occasionally reminisce. The blending of memories of school days with subsequent experiences can result in the discovery of basic truths that are eternal. The enrichment of your life depends upon the quantity and quality of these essential truths that you learn and practice.

The Golden Rule, "Therefore, all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them" is for everyone. Its universal application is the key to the solution of all human problems.

Every person has a physical, mental, and spiritual potentiality that is not usually attained. Therefore, each one has an important mission to fulfill.

The rights and liberties of Americans must be preserved and extended. Consequently, personal right must be in harmony with the rights of all others, every civil right implies a civic duty, and our government must rest upon the consent of the governed.

The greatness of a country depends upon its citizens. An enlightened nation guided by the Golden Rule and dedicated to high ideals will endure.

FACULTY

Mr. Harold Fulton

To a very good Student.
H. Fulton

Math Department

Mrs. Ruth Minich

Miss Aida Hanst

Mrs. Ruth McLaughlin

The Keystone High School math department presents a thorough investigation of every phase of the mathematical field. With the help of these patient and experienced instructors, the students have mastered algebra, trigonometry, business math, or the fundamentals of arithmetic.

This acquired knowledge will prove forever useful in the chosen careers of every student.

Mr. Harry Greer, Jr.

An interest in the unusual phases of life is the backbone of Keystone's science department Under the guidance of these learned men, any interested student can learn of the mysteries brought forward in biology, the study of man himself; in physics, the study of matter and energy; or in chemistry, the study of the elements which constitute the earth we live on.

Mr. Charles Eddinger

Science Department

Fred Wise

Mr. Fred Wise

Mr. Arthur Aaron

Social Studies

Mr. Arthur Moyer

Mr. John Catalano

The many stirring events of 1963-64 called for a thorough study of the present-day world and the civilizations of the past. The social studies department accepted the responsibility of educating Keystone's students in the problems of democracy, civics, world history, world geography, and histories of the ancient worlds. Knowing the future holds varied problems, each Keystone graduate will be prepared to face these problems and conquer them.

Mrs. Dorothy Knight

Mr. John Wain

Mrs. Berlin

Mr. Hutton

Mr. Showers

Special Departments

The age old arts of cooking, sewing, and personal grooming have taken on a new and modern trend under the able supervision of Mrs. Berlin. These skills will help to mould experienced and economical homemakers.

Any student with creative ability is given the opportunity to express it in the art department. Mr. Hutton not only teaches basic art standards, but also introduces new phases in sculpturing, oil painting, and leather work.

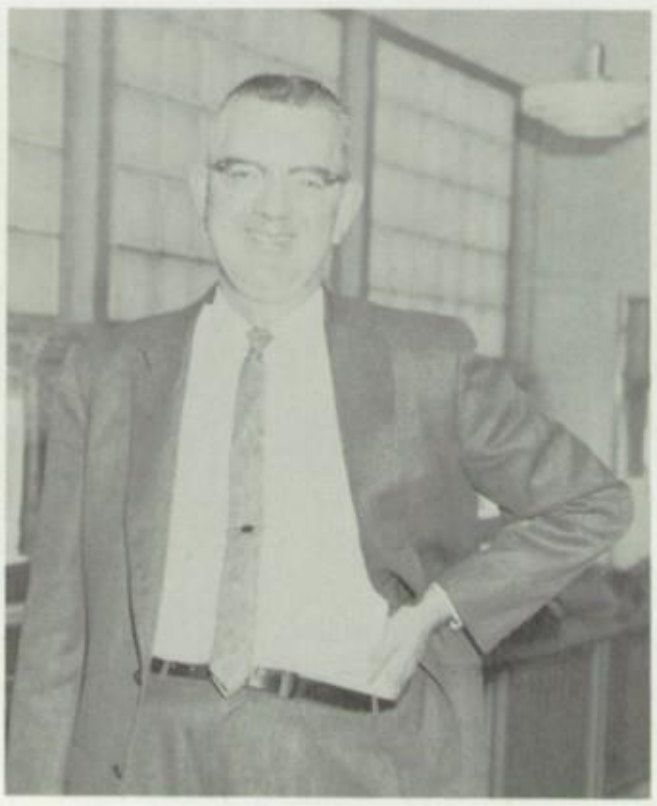
The backbone of our nation is the farmers. In Keystone's vocational agriculture department, Mr. Showers instructs any interested boy in the modern techniques of farming.

Mr. Thompson, industrial arts instructor, teaches all the arts of woodwork. He also instructs mechanical drawing.

Mr. Thompson

Business Department

Miss Florence Crisman



Mr. George Lauffer

Preparation for the future is the goal of the business department. The education which is obtained in these classes is one which can be used the minute you step off the stage on graduation night. Mr. Gehres starts this career by teaching Business Math in the sophomore year. Mr. Lauffer offers typing this same year. The combined efforts of Miss Crissman and Mr. Lauffer in the junior and senior years help round out the commercial student's education at Keystone.

Mr. Robert Gehres

Mr. John Bertani

Mrs. Mary Jane Maxson

Mrs. Sarah Vensel

Mrs. Aldine McConnell

English Department

A knowledge of English is an invaluable asset to the study of other arts. Being able to communicate well is necessary for living with others and for developing a personality.

Debating and speeches aid the individual in assuming poise before an audience. This skill is essential now and will always be useful in the future. Correct grammer usage and an extensive vocabulary are also taught to create improved speaking and writing.

Mrs. Mary McCoy

Mrs. Esther Ritner

Miss Mary Jane Wilshire

Mr. McElravey

Miss Shaner

One of the most important building blocks to a successful high-school career is a guidance department. Mr. McElravey aids in choosing courses or in choosing a college.

The library is a priceless facility in the process of learning. Under Miss Shaner's supervision, the Library is used for reference and entertaining reading.

Special Departments

Each student is given the opportunity to become a safe and skilled driver, in the drivers education class. Mr. Shingledecker does an excellent job in both text book study and on the road training.

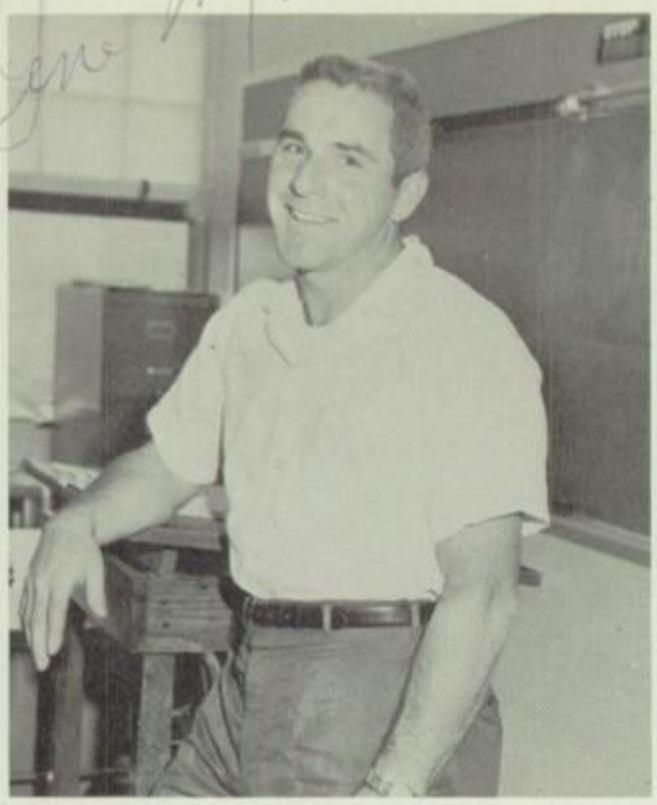
Mr. Shuop heads the special education department. This year his department had been moved to the new wing, where it has the most modern facilities.

Mr. Shingledecker

Mr. Shoup

Gene Masters

Physical Education



Mr. Gene Masters

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams

With the increasing stress on physical fitness, the physical education department has taken on the task of producing healthy and physically strong individuals.

Each student is taught the basic fundamentals of team games and the importance of fair play.

Music Department

Music is a necessary part of a well-rounded high school curriculum. Keystone's vocal and instrumental music departments are an outstanding asset to the education of every student. The marching band stimulates school spirit at football games and serves the community by marching in parades. The vocal groups sing for events in the community as well as school events.

Mr. Klahr Peterson

Mrs. Doris Weaver

Best Wishes,
Doris Weaver

Nurse

Elna Neiderriter

Perhaps the greatest of all duties that one person can administer is that of caring for the ill. Mrs. Neiderriter carries many great responsibilities in her job as the school nurse, from the scratches received in play, to the personal problems which stem from the heart, she always comes to your aid. Her day sometimes seems endless when there is an epidemic or a sudden rush of emergencies but her life is rewarding and dedicated. Good health goes hand in hand with a good education and our school nurse is here to help us.

Secretaries

The secretarial responsibilities in a school as large as Keystone are momentous. These ladies dutifully care for the school finances and records. A complete report must be kept of every student, and activity.

In addition to these responsibilities, they carry on the correspondence for the school in general and for the supervising principals.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Class Of '65

122 juniors are completing the rigors for graduation next spring. During their third year in high school, the juniors strive for academic excellence in fields including chemistry, French, geometry, and English and in the business field, bookkeeping, shorthand, and typing. Students in the general course are taught the skills of homemaking and agriculture.

Supplementing their scholastic program with various activities, the juniors participate in cheerleading, sports, music, and clubs. Juniors are also given a chance to participate in the tri-class play.

A Mad Hatters theme correlated the junior class party. Held Friday, November 8, even the teachers wore festive headgear. A lunch followed relay games and a straw and ping pong game.

A class meeting held in the auditorium initiated the junior card sale. Thursday, October 3, information and samples were distributed for the campaign.

Highlighting the junior year is the annual spring senior-junior prom. At a class meeting early in January a theme is selected from the entries submitted and the work begins. After committees and chairmen are appointed, the juniors seek seclusion and begin to assemble materials. As the final days of preparation draw near, last-minute changes demand perfection.

Guiding the junior class are Mr. Greer, Miss Wilshire, Mrs. Minich, and Mr. Lauffer.

Class '66

Ordering class rings in the spring paramounts the sophomore year. The rings, which will be delivered in the fall, unify the class.

Balloting took place in March for the class motto, color, and flower. Selected were "Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor, blue and white, and the pink rose.

The sophomores are required to take Biology, English and American History. In addition they may choose to take Latin, French, Algebra or any of the courses offered in the Commercial Department.

Karen Best, president, and Mike Martucic are aided in leading the class by Merry Gene Neely, secretary, and Sally Weeter, treasurer.

A variety of opportunities present themselves to 113 freshamen. Just finishing their first year of high school, this class is making decisions which influence all future plans. After a two year, broadly planned educational program the freshmen specialize either in the academic, general, or business course this year.

Latin, French, and algebra become integral parts of the curricula for aspiring collegiates.

General science, English, and a Pennsylvania history-civics course round out the academic program. Homemaking, industrial arts, and art present themselves to the freshmen who select the general schedule. Just beginning in the business course, freshmen elect a course of study which presents the basic fundamentals.

For the freshmen a new world opens up. Vocational clubs such as Future Teachers, intramural sports, and music endeavors in the form of a concert emerge.

Beginning the year with election of class officers and student council representatives, the freshmen began to take a role in student government.

Mrs. Ritner, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Shingledecker, and Mr. Showers are class advisors.

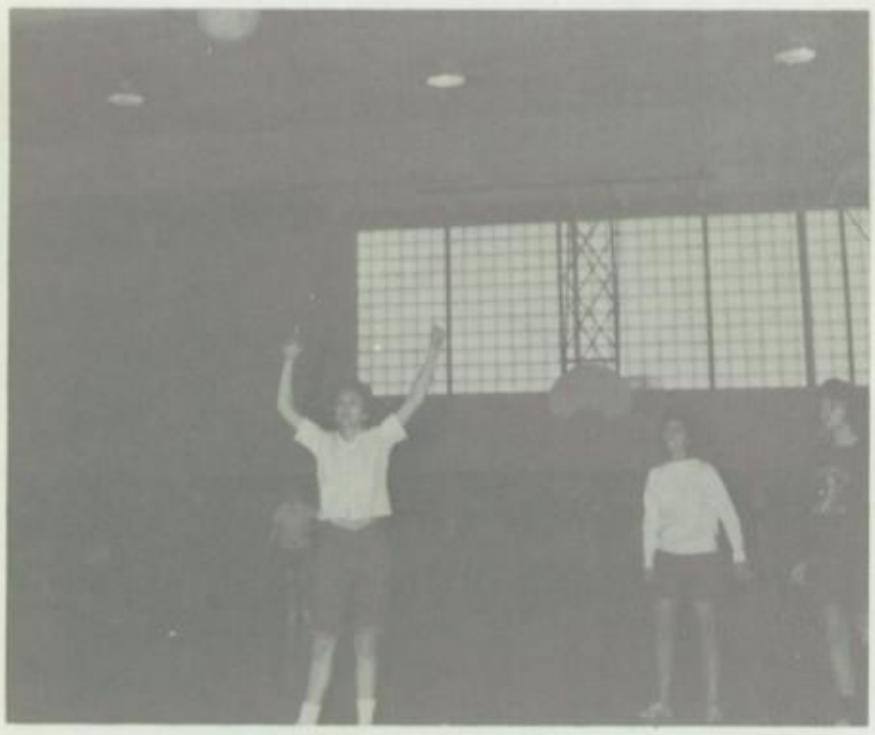
ATHLETICS



Marjorie scores for the Seniors!

The month of February at Keystone brings the girls' intramural basketball play-offs. In charge of these games are Miss Hanst and Mrs. Williams.

The preliminary rounds of these games brought forth a winning team in the Junior class and the Senior class. These two teams were then scheduled to meet in the finale before the student body. In this game, the title was won by the girls of the Junior team.

Come on girls! Play ball!

Get that tip!

Music for Fun

Keystone Alma Mater

Keystone High our Alma Mater,
Fount of wisdom, truth, and light. . . . . .

. . . . . Thee we love, on thee rely,
For thy guidance always right.

We sing out thy fame and honor, We recall thy ideals true,
As we strive with hope anew. . . . . .

. . . . . We salute thee, Keystone High School,
Praise to thee we loud proclaim.

As we strive to bring thee glory,
Paying tribute to thy name. . . . . .

. . . . . Memories pleasant, classmates loyal,
All are treasure we hold dear,
As we face each future year.
